

The retinal cells collect light and guide it toward the photoreceptors while preserving the spatial pattern across the neural tissue.